

General Discussion Questions on Injustice

How does the author portray injustice in the story?

Is it systemic, personal, or both?

What characters experience injustice, and how do their experiences shape the narrative?

How does the setting (time and place) influence the type and extent of injustice depicted?

Are there characters who perpetuate injustice?

What motivates their actions?

How do victims of injustice respond?

Do they fight back, accept, or find other ways to cope?

Does the story offer any hope for justice or change by the end?

Why or why not?

How does the theme of injustice intersect with other themes like power, identity, or morality?

How is injustice revealed through symbolism, imagery, or literary devices in the work?

Does the narrative encourage readers to question real-world systems of injustice? How?

How might different readers' backgrounds affect their interpretation of the injustice portrayed?